ABSTRACT OF DISCLOSURE

METHODS FOR SPEECH PROCESSING

The invention relates to a method for speech processing in which input variables containing speech features are mapped onto output variables. In the mapping process, the input variables are weighted and/or identical maps are produced for different sets of input variables and at least one output variable.